Flight For Life Receives Commission on Accreditation of Medical Transport Services Accreditation Renewal

WAUKESHA, Wis. – The Commission on Accreditation of Medical Transport Systems (CAMTS) is proud to announce that Flight For Life, a rotor-wing transport service in Southeast Wisconsin, was again awarded a three-year accreditation. Flight For Life provides highly skilled teams to care for adult, pediatric, and neonatal patients. This accreditation shows that as a program, Flight For Life provides the highest quality patient care while maintaining rigorous safety standards.

Flight For Life initially received its accreditation in 1996 and was the first program in Wisconsin to achieve CAMTS accreditation. Flight For Life currently maintains bases in both Burlington and Waukesha, WI, with plans to open a new base in Hartford within the coming year. “Flight For Life is honored to receive full CAMTS accreditation status. Renewing our CAMTS accreditation required a significant amount of effort and hard work, but our team rose to the challenge and succeeded. I could not be more proud of the critical care flight nurses, critical care flight paramedics, Communication Specialists, pilots, and administrative staff that make up the Flight For Life organization,” said Executive Director Leif Erickson.

CAMTS is a non-profit organizations dedicated to improving the quality and safety of medical transport services, with 21 current member organizations, each of which sends one representative to the CAMTS Board of Directors. CAMTS offers a program of voluntary evaluation for compliance of the accreditation standards demonstrating the ability to deliver service of a specific quality, with a strong focus on patient care and safety in the transport environment. More information about CAMTS can be found at www.camts.org.
